

PROGRAMME OUTCOMES (PO) OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

- The programme aspires to enhance critical thinking abilities, allowing students to analyse and evaluate complex political issues and arguments. Also, gain insights into the functioning of governments, political institutions, and the decision-making processes that shape societies.
- Acquire a broader perspective on global affairs, international relations, and the interconnectedness of nations.
- It is to equip students with the knowledge that is needed to be informed and active citizens, contributing to the democratic process.
- It aspires to nurture students in a way that they can pursue diverse career paths, including politics, public administration, international relations, law, journalism, and advocacy.
- It develops in students a sense of civic responsibility, encouraging students to participate in community and political activities for positive societal change.
- It provides a foundation for understanding legal systems, making it beneficial for those interested in pursuing law.
- It inculcates among students an understanding of social issues, inequalities, and justice, fostering empathy and a commitment to social responsibility.
- Overall, learning political science empowers students with a diverse skill set and knowledge base, preparing them for active citizenship and various career opportunities.